LH40025	Dealing with Extremism and Terrorism	Global

Description:

You're probably getting nervous just looking at the title of this course, aren't you? Don't worry, we understand that. As far as hot button issues go, this is probably one of the most volatile. But you can't ignore it because it's tricky, or controversial. In fact, it's the ignorance that can lead to misunderstandings, which in turn fuels the controversy. We need a course that'll explore all the key considerations. That'll provide the main information employers and employees need to understand exactly what they're talking about. The knowledge will be the first step towards dealing with extremism and terrorism in the workplace. Putting it in practice is the second. This isn't just important in the workplace. It's important everywhere.
